Artist Exhibition: Artwork By Lori Eubanks
September 5 – September 18, 2014

ALBANY, NY—Sorelle Gallery is pleased to announce our upcoming exhibition featuring paintings by floral and landscape artist Lori Eubanks opening on September 5, 2014.

Lori Eubanks' gorgeous floral paintings are inspired by the French Impressionists. Drawing from their influence, she utilizes her own unique and dedicated approach to form and combines serene compositions with simply stated themes. Her sensitively executed oils depict a variety of subjects, many focusing on her love of floral arrangements and the beauty found in the natural world. Her paintings reflect the beauty that can be found in nature while using color to reflect light and atmosphere.

Her eye for color, movement, and mood are exquisite and her atmospheric paintings are beginning to receive the attention they merit. Eubanks' work is currently displayed in a growing number of private and corporate collections and in galleries in Bucks County, PA and Camphill, PA. Eubanks travels extensively throughout the United States and Europe seeking new inspiration. She has painted in Monet's gardens and the French countryside. Her work has been exhibited in a show of American artists in Giverny, France at Galerie Les Agapanthes along with countless shows throughout the United States. She has studied under a number of influential American artists, including impressionist Ted Goerschner in California and Thomas Trausch in Chicago, Illinois.

"I use many layers of paint in my work to allow me to pull the under color to the surface and create depth and movement to highlight form and the way light defines a subject. Through rich colors and joyful scenes, my paintings reflect the beauty I find in life. My creative process often involves Coronas, bare feet and good music!"
